NOW WHAT?

GLOBAL NETWORK FOR ADVANCED MANAGEMENT

Fifth Anniversary Symposium
Business and Management Education in the Age of Contested Globalization
April 19–21, 2017 • Yale School of Management
For decades, most business schools and indeed most businesses have operated under the assumption that flows of goods, money, information, and people across borders will continue to grow as the world becomes more global. Rising nationalism and populism around the globe call for a reality check. What is the future of globalization and what are the implications for globally operating enterprises? How can business schools prepare students for the challenges ahead?

The Global Network for Advanced Management was built for this challenge. The Global Network has already launched a series of innovations—from virtual courses to multi-school case studies—that leverage and connect top minds in markets around the world. To mark the Global Network’s Fifth Anniversary, faculty, students, alumni, deans, and directors of the 29 member schools who have made networked learning, inquiry, and teamwork a reality will convene:

• to celebrate in demonstrations of these innovations, and
• to confront pressing issues on the future of globalization and their implications for management education.

The program begins on Wednesday, April 19, 2017, and concludes on Friday, April 21, 2017. Venue: Yale School of Management, Edward P. Evans Hall, 165 Whitney Avenue, New Haven, Connecticut, United States.

Join students, faculty, alumni, staff, and distinguished guests for refreshments and lively conversation in a celebration of five years of groundbreaking, networked management education.
The Global Network for Advanced Management drives innovation and creates value by connecting leading global business schools, their resources, and their stakeholders. Launched in 2012, the Global Network for Advanced Management includes 29 leading business schools from diverse regions, countries, cultures, and economies in different phases of development. A common motivation of member schools is to connect and position their students, faculty, staff, alumni and other constituencies so that they can deepen their understanding of differences and commonalities in their economies and increase their effectiveness. Member schools recognize that leaders in all sectors will be asked to contribute to the solutions of major problems that are typically complex and global.

Representing a shift beyond traditional partnership models of business school collaboration, the Global Network enables the development of innovative initiatives that leverage the schools’ comparative advantages. Leveraging network efficiencies, utilizing new technologies, building strong institutional and personal relationships, and operating with a minimum of bureaucracy, the Global Network is having a transformational effect on students, member schools, management education, and beyond.
